Criteria for the evaluation of ESL readers for the senior primary phase

Cornelia GA Gibbens, MA, HED

Thesis submitted for the degree Philosophiae Doctor in English of the Potchefstroomse Universiteit vir Christelike Hoër Onderwys

Promoter: Prof. Annette L Combrink, D.Litt., HED
Assistant Promoter: Prof. JL van der Walt, D.Ed., HED

Potchefstroom, December 2000
Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body (Richard Steele).

The more you read the more you consciousness-build (Michael Smith).

Books are the carriers of civilisation. Without books, history is silent, literature dumb, science crippled, thought and speculation at a standstill (Barbara Tuchman, in Hobbs, 2000)
Acknowledgements

• To my promoter, Professor A. L. Combrink the following - Maslow said that every man who is kind, helpful, decent, psychologically democratic, affectionate and warm, is a psychotherapeutic force. I regard you as this very crucial force behind me when I was writing my thesis and hereby express my sincere gratitude. Thanks for your guidance. You were there for me when I needed you most also when I needed urgent financial support to complete my studies.
• To my assistant promoter, Prof. J.L. Van der Walt: Your inputs have been invaluable.
• To the principals, teachers and learners of schools participating in my research project;
• To the people who supplied financial support.
• To the kind and helpful staff of the Ferdinand Postma Library as well as the Potchefstroom town library;
• To my family and friends: thanks for being the family and friends every person can only wish and pray for.
• A special word of thanks:
  • To Georgie, my son for being so supportive even though you are so young;
  • To my sisters Fransa who supplied security and solutions to many problems, Truidie who believed in me, my brother Hans Grobler who kept focusing my attention on balance, my sister-in-law Annemie and my brothers-in-law André de Klerk for support and Hendrik de Beer who allowed me to use his internet. You never stopped encouraging me throughout my undertaking; for if the spirit cannot be kept alive, there is nothing left to write for or about. May we always be there for each other.

- To my uncle and aunt Daan and Mimie Grobler: you were the wind behind my back, supporting me for many years
- To Wouter and Karrie Gronum: your valuable knowledge on education stemming from being principals, support and friendship served as valued inspiration;
- To Nico Gronum: thanks for your encouragement and support;
- To my cousin Retha Goosen: thanks for helping me with the pictures and introducing me to the right people at the right time;
- To Gerda Schilling: thanks for assisting me with the drawing of graphs;
- To Lolette Paxton: thanks for marking my school exam papers when I had to work on my thesis and my publication simultaneously;
- To my dearest late friend Elise Venter who supplied me with the latest news on reading;
- To my dear friend Agnes Lugthart (Meyer) who listened to all my ideas;
- To Maryke Reyneke for scanning the photographs;
- To Marinda Moodie the receptionist and secretary at the School of Languages - thanks for always being kind and understanding;
- To all inspiring poets and writers encouraging me as reader to write;
- To my church the Gereformeerde Kerk Noordbrug who supported me when I needed them;
- To my heavenly Father for strengthening me from within.
SUMMARY

The approach in thesis was holistic in the sense that use was made of theoretical underpinnings from fields as diverse such as reception aesthetics and sociolinguistics to study reader preferences and influences of texts on readers. Sociolinguistic influences considered to exert an influence on readers are gender, educational influences such as teachers and even parents, socio-economic influences, ethnicity and culture, religion, age and emotional as well as cognitive development. Theoretical investigation revealed that books enjoyed by learners are books that deal with cultural issues sensitively and avoid portraying Black people as inferior. The ideal book is a book that parents and teachers approve of and children enjoy in equal measure. The favourite book for girls aged 11-14 must be a romantic story with lots of fantasy and with a female character in the lead. The males want a male major character, but also like romantic stories.

Literacy could be significantly promoted if all these factors are taken into account when authors write books. Parents seem to be very involved with their offspring, but television seems to have cast its spell over children, keeping them glued to their seats.

The empirical investigation attempted to verify the theoretical statements and support the notion that ethnicity must be dealt with sensitively. It reveals a cry for help from the side of Black learners to share and mix with other cultures and reveals the curiosity of White learners about, for example, township stories in spite of their demonstrated resistance to mixed cultures in books.
It points out and reinforces the recurrent statements that the economy is a problem and resources and money are in short supply. A surprise revelation was that boys are not such poor readers as they are sometimes perceived to be in that they read as eagerly and even more eagerly than girls (from the results of the study). The empirical study underlines the economic problems of South Africa which exacerbate the already precarious provision of reading materials in homes of learners. It also reveals that writers are actually few and far between, and disappointingly not many learners seem to be interested in writing stories for others to read and therefore the handful of learners who do dispose of such talents need tremendous encouragement so that they can answer the need and write stories and other creative works of literature.
OPSOMMING

Die benadering in hierdie proefskrif is holisties in die sin dat gebruikgemaak is van teoretiese begrondings uit velde soos resepsie-estetika en sosiolinguistiek om lesersvoorkeure te bepaal en die invloed van tekse op lesers vas te stel. Sosiolinguistiese invloede wat ’n rol speel is geslag, opvoedkundige invloede soos onderwysers en selfs ouers, sosio-ekonomiese invloede, etnisiteit en kultuur, godsdiens, ouderdom en emosionele en kognitiewe ontwikkeling. Die teoretiese ondersoek het aan die lig gebring dat boeke wat lesers geniet dié boeke is wat sensitief is oor kulturele aangeleenthede en wat nie Swartmense as minderwaardig uitbeeld nie. Die ideale boek hiervolgens is ’n boek wat ouers en onderwysers goedkeur maar wat kinders ook geniet. Dogters van tussen elf en veertien geniet romantiese verhale met heelwat fantasie en ’n vroulike hoofkarakter. Seuns uit hierdie groep verkies ’n manlike hoofkarakter en hou die ook baie van romantiese verhale.

Geletterdheid sou heelwat verbeter kon word indien al hierdie faktore in berekening gebring word as boeke geskryf word. Dit blyk tog of ouers nogal betrokke is by hulle kinders as dit by lees kom, maar ongelukkig het televisie ’n stewige greep op die kinders en het ’n werklike invloed.

Die empiriese ondersoek was ’n poging om die teoretiese aanname te verifieer en het die idee ondersteun dat etnisiteit met die grootste omsigtigheid hanteer moet word. Dit is terselfdertyd ’n hulpkreet van die kant van Swart leerders om te deel in ander kulture and wys ook die nuuskierigheid van Wit leerders oor lewe in die swart woongebiede – ten spyte daarvan dat hulle beweer het dat hulle nie juis in die representasie van gemengde kulture in boeke belangstel nie.

Die studie wys ook uit dat die ekonomie, soos algemeen bekend, ‘n probleem is en bronne en geld is te min. Wat nogal verrassend was, is dat seuns nie heeternal sulke swak lesers is as wat algemeen gedink word nie – die studie wys dat hulle meer as meisies lees. Die empiriese studie onderstreep weer eens die eckonomiese probleme van Suid-Afrika wat die alreeds moeilike situasie van lesers binne hulle huisverband verder bemoeilik. Dit wys ook dat skrywers maar dun gesaai is, en dit is nogal teleurstellend dat nie baie leerders belangstelling toon om te skryf nie. Die paar leerders wat wel belangstel moet dus aktief aangemoedig word en gewys word op die uitslae van studies soos hierdie, sodat toepaslike boeke geskryf kan word en die leeskultuur uitgebrei word.
Table of contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Number</th>
<th>Title of section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dedication</td>
<td>i</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acknowledgements</td>
<td>ii</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Summary</td>
<td>iv</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Opsomming</td>
<td>vi</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Table of contents</td>
<td>viii</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. Introduction 1
   1.1 Introduction 1
      1.1.1 Illiteracy 5
      1.1.2 Availability of reading books 8
      1.1.3 Unsuitability of reading books available 11
      1.1.4 Sociolinguistic influences 13
   1.2 Questions that arise 18
   1.3 Aims 19
   1.4 Central theoretical statement 19
   1.5 Appropriate methods of research 19
      1.5.1 A theoretical method: A sociolinguistic investigation 19
      1.5.2 Empirical method of research 20

2. Establishing the sociolinguistic profile of the target reader 24
   2.1 Introduction 25
   2.2 Sociolinguistic variables and the reader profile 26
   2.3 Our Rainbow Nation 28
   2.4 Cultural awareness in education 33
      2.4.1 Definitions and cultural concepts 33
      2.4.2 Culture and the South African classroom 38
      2.4.3 Culture and the Japanese and American classrooms 40
   2.5 What is your skin colour: Ethnicity, nationalism, race and culture 45
      2.6 Socio-economic factors and class 49
      2.6.1 Born into fame or poverty, rags or riches 49
      2.6.2 Facing the music with regard to the South African situation 51
   2.7 What age has to do with it 55
      2.7.1 Cognitive and affective development and attitude 55
      2.7.2 The South African context and age 61
   2.8 Personality development 65
   2.9 Social development 66
      2.9.1 Friends - peer group pressure 66
      2.9.2 Guidance: the role of teachers and parents 70
   2.10 Motor cars and Barbie dolls: - sex-role development 75
   2.11 Religion 79
   2.12 Summary 82
6.5 Instrumentation

6.5.1 Surveys

6.5.2 The questionnaire and interview

6.6 Procedure

6.7 Validity

7 Analysis of response

7.1 Gender preferences (Table 1, Figure 1)

7.2 Ethnicity (Table 2, Figures 6 and 6)

7.3 Socio-economic factors (Table 3, Figure 7)

7.4 Education (Table 4, Figure 8)

7.5 Specific choices and responses to abstracts and summaries

7.7 Religion

7.8 Examples of books suggested by learners

7.9 Conclusion

7.10 Summary

8 Conclusion

Bibliography

Addenda

1 The questionnaire

2 The covering letter